ABOUT THE ORLANDO MAGIC

Orlando's NBA franchise since 1989, the Magic's mission is to be world champions on and off the court, delivering legendary moments every step of the way. The Magic, celebrating its 25th Anniversary Silver Season, has seen great success in a relatively short history, winning five division championships (1995, 1996, 2008, 2009, 2010) with seven 50-plus win seasons and capturing the Eastern Conference title in 1995 and 2009. Off the court, on an annual basis, the Orlando Magic gives more than $2 million to the local community by way of sponsorships of events, donated tickets, autographed merchandise, scholarships and grants. Orlando Magic community relations programs impact an estimated 75,000 kids each year, while a Magic staff-wide initiative provides more than 6,000 volunteer hours annually. In addition, over the last 23 years more than $18 million has been distributed to local nonprofit community organizations through the Orlando Magic Youth Fund (OMYF-MFF), a McCormick Foundation Fund since 1994, which serves at-risk youth. Ticket highlights for the Magic's 2013-14 Silver Season in the Amway Center, honored with TheStadiumBusiness Awards' 2013 Customer Experience Award and named SportsBusiness Journal's 2012 Sports Facility of the Year, include: 2,500 seats priced $20 or less, 8,000 seats priced $40 or less and 9,000 seats priced $50 or under. For ticket information log on to www.OrlandoMagic.com or call 407-89-MAGIC.

ABOUT THE AMWAY CENTER

The Orlando Magic served as the developer of the Amway Center, which hosts major national events, concerts and family shows. Opened in the fall of 2010, the facility is owned and operated by the City of Orlando on behalf of the Central Florida community. The Amway Center was designed to reflect the character of the community, meet the goals of the users and build on the legacy of sports and entertainment in Orlando. The building's exterior features a modern blend of glass and metal materials, along with ever-changing graphics via a monumental wall along one facade. A 180-foot tall tower serves as a beacon amid the downtown skyline. The 875,000 square foot, Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) Gold certified building features a sustainable, environmentally-friendly design and unmatched technology, including 1,100 digital monitors, the tallest high-definition video board in an NBA venue and multiple premium amenities available to all patrons in the building. Amway Center was recently honored with TheStadiumBusiness Awards' 2013 Customer Experience Award and named SportsBusiness Journal's 2012 Sports Facility of the Year. MEDIA INTRODUCTION AND GUIDELINES

TO THE MEDIA

Welcome to the 25th "Silver Season" of Orlando Magic basketball and fourth in the Amway Center. We are very pleased to supply this publication and hope it will answer many of your questions throughout the next several months. We sincerely appreciate your interest in the Magic and will do everything possible to meet your needs throughout the course of the season. This guide will be supplemented with materials on a regular basis during the year. Again, if we can ever be of any assistance, please do not hesitate to call on us. In an effort to continue to provide a professional working environment, we have established the following guidelines for the upcoming campaign.

CREDENTIALS

Single-game media credentials can be reserved by accredited media members by calling the Communications Department at least 24 hours before a game (no exceptions) at 407-916-2532 or e-mailing MagicCredentials@OrlandoMagic.com. Media members covering the Magic on a regular basis will be issued season passes, but are still required to reserve seating at all games by calling or e-mailing the Communications Department by the deadlines mentioned above. Credentials will allow working media members entry into the arena, while also providing reserved media seating and access to both team locker rooms and the media workroom. In all cases, credentials are non-transferable and any unauthorized use will subject the bearer to ejection from the arena and forfeiture of the credential. All single-game credentials may be picked up on gamedays at the media entrance of the arena, located at the southwest corner of the building (South Street, event level).

MEDIA WORKROOM

The Magic media workroom is located in the southwest corner of the arena on the event level and will be opened two hours prior to game time. Admittance/space is limited to working media members with credentials only. The media workroom will remain open throughout the game and until the last working media members have finished their game-night duties. The professional intent of the media workroom is to provide a meeting and working place for writers, reporters, broadcasters and game personnel. Family members and guests of media members will not be accommodated in the media workroom. Any abuse of the media workroom and/or media privileges will result in a forfeiture of your media pass. Television monitors, telephones and work space will all be provided in the media workroom.

LOCKER ROOMS

The Magic locker room is located on the northwest corner of the event level, while the visitors' locker room is located on the southwest corner. In accordance with NBA policy, both locker rooms will be open 75 minutes prior to tip-off until 45 minutes before game time and 15 minutes after the game. Only those individuals with prominently displayed credentials will gain admittance into the locker rooms. Your cooperation and courtesy are asked in maintaining proper working atmosphere for postgame interviews.

INTERVIEWS

As stated above, pregame interviews are allowed 75 minutes prior to tip-off until 45 minutes prior to game time. Postgame interviews are conducted as follows: both the Magic head coach (in interview room) and the visiting team head coach (at opposing locker room entrance) will address media members approximately 10 minutes after the game. Your cooperation and professional courtesy are asked in maintaining a proper working atmosphere for postgame interviews.

PRACTICE/SHOOT-AROUNDS

As a general rule, Orlando practices and game-day shoot-arounds will be open to the media before each workout. In both cases, interviews with players and coaches will be prior to the workouts. Please go to the Magic's media website (OrlandoMagic.com/MagicPR) or call the Communications Department to confirm practice times and locations.

TELEVISION/RADIO

Television and radio broadcast positions are located along the scorer's table on the west sideline of the event level and on the radio deck, which is located on the west side of the club level. The Magic Communications Department will be happy to arrange statisticians for visiting radio and television broadcasters. If statisticians are needed, please contact the Magic Communications Department at least 24 hours prior to game time. Once arrangements are made for statisticians, the individual must be paid whether or not they are used. The Communications Department will be happy to arrange pregame, halftime, and postgame interviews according to NBA guidelines. Please make arrangements for those interviews as early as possible.

MEDIA SEATING

Reserved media seating has been designated in the media loge (northwest corner of arena on club level), as well as on the visitors' baseline and in the press box (west sideline on press level). All seats are reserved and marked with placecards for each individual media member. To avoid embarrassment, individuals are asked to sit in their pre-assigned seats. Seating charts are also posted in the media workroom and throughout the building. Electrical outlets and telephones are placed at press seats for your convenience. If a media member is in need of an individual phone, please contact the Communications Department for assistance. Statistics will be distributed to the press seating locations periodically.

MEDIA INTRODUCTION AND GUIDELINES

PHOTOGRAPHERS/VIDEOGRAPHERS

Limited space is available on each baseline for both still photographers and television cameramen. All are required to pick up photo passes upon entering the arena. Photographers without photo passes will not be allowed on the arena floor. Freelance photographers will not be credentialed without a certificate of assignment from an established publication. The Magic's Local Television Courtside Video Pool allows local outlets the ability to obtain access to comparable game highlight footage for news coverage purposes. For more information, contact Dave Sirak at 407-448-3473 or Dave.Sirak@WFTV.com.

MEDIA TICKETS

A limited number of game tickets are available for media purchase on a single-game basis from the Magic Communications Department. Unfortunately, due to the small number available, all requests cannot be honored. There are limitations to the number of tickets allotted to each request, and all requests should be made no later than 5:00 p.m. the day before a game (5:00 p.m. Friday for a weekend game).

MEDIA PARKING

Members of the media can use their parking pass to park in the lots designated on the parking pass they receive. There are a limited number of single-game parking passes available for visiting media members upon request of the Communications Department. Satellite TV truck parking will be provided for up to four satellite trucks on the west side of Division Street. For technical assistance with TV truck and satellite truck parking and coordination, please contact Jennifer Lenhart-Belawski in the Magic's Broadcast Technology and Services Department at 407-916-2571.

SERVICES

A pregame media meal will be served in the media workroom in the southwest corner on the event level. Beverages are also provided at all times in the media workroom. Game notes and a limited number of media guides and game programs will be available in the media workroom before the start of the game. In addition, play-by-play sheets, halftime and quarter boxscores and postgame quotes will be available in the media workroom following the game. Complimentary fax service is also available upon request. Boxscores and play-by-play sheets will be delivered in a prompt manner to the press seating locations at the end of each quarter. Advance game notes will be delivered to the hotel of all visiting media members. In order to provide this service efficiently, we ask that you contact the Magic Communications Department if you are not staying in the designated team hotel. If there is anything else that we can do to assist in your coverage of the Magic this NBA season, please don't hesitate to ask.

AMWAY CENTER MEDIA INFO

The DeVos family purchased the Orlando Magic in September of 1991. At that time, family head Rich DeVos stated that the DeVos family is simply the team's current caretaker, making it clear that the real owners of the NBA franchise would continue to be the Central Florida community and the loyal Magic fans. Since purchasing the team, the franchise has won five division championships (Atlantic Division: 1994-95, 1995-96; Southeast Division: 2007-08, 2008-09, 2009-10), two Eastern Conference titles (1994-95, 2008-09) and had seven 50-win seasons, including a franchise-record 60 victories in 1995-96. The Magic have advanced to the playoffs 14 times during that span, while finishing with a .500 record or better in 16 of the last 21 seasons.

The acquisition and operation of the Magic is a family affair involving Rich, his wife, Helen, and their four children and spouses: Dick and Betsy DeVos, Dan and Pamella DeVos, Cheri DeVos VanderWeide, and Doug and Maria DeVos.

Although the senior DeVoses have an established residence in southern Florida, the family was introduced to the Central Florida community during Orlando's drive to bring major league baseball to "The City Beautiful." An ensuing relationship was formed between the DeVos family and the city of Orlando.

The baseball venture left them with a heightened interest in professional sports ownership. The 87-year-old co-founder of Amway – today a global leader in direct selling – envisioned incorporating the philosophies that made him a successful businessman with that of a solid, young NBA franchise. He understands the impact professional sports can have on the upcoming generation, and he is committed to ensuring the team provides a positive, encouraging example.

The DeVos family played a key role in helping to secure the state-of-the-art Amway Center in Orlando. The Amway Center is part of a public community venues program that also includes a new Performing Arts Center and a renovation of the Citrus Bowl Stadium. The new Amway Center opened in October 2010. In addition, the Magic also contributed $12.5 million toward construction of five community recreation centers throughout Orange County, Florida, as part of its commitment to build the new Amway Center.

From 1995-2001, RDV Sports owned and operated the Orlando Solar Bears of the International Hockey League. During their six seasons of existence, the Solar Bears captured one division title (Central Division, 1995-96), three Eastern Conference crowns (1996, 1999, 2001) and the IHL's Turner Cup championship in 2000-01. Orlando compiled an all-time regular season record of 286-162-44 (.626), the best in the league over that time frame.

From 1998-2002, the Orlando Miracle of the WNBA was part of the RDV Sports portfolio. The Miracle played in their inaugural season during the summer of 1999 and made the playoffs in 2000.

RDV Sports, named for Rich DeVos and the general partner of the Magic, has been and continues to be an active partner in the Central Florida community. In February of 1998, RDV Sports, in partnership with Florida Hospital, opened the $50 million, 365,000-square-foot RDV Sportsplex. The RDV Sportsplex is a state-of-the-art health and wellness facility, which includes a world-class health club, medical offices, restaurant, retail shops, and front office facilities for the Magic.

The DeVos family remains involved in numerous charities and community-enhancement endeavors, both in the Central Florida area and their hometown region of Grand Rapids, Mich. The Orlando Magic Youth Fund has positively impacted more than one million children. Through private donations, fund-raising events and contributions, more than $17 million has been raised and distributed to non-profit organizations that support the OMYF mission statement.

10,000! On December 22, 1988, the 10,000th season ticket was sold, ending the Magic's commitment to the NBA of guaranteeing 10,000 season ticketholders by January 1, 1989. Pat Williams (above) makes the announcement of Orlando meeting its season ticket goal.

A MODERN DAY P.T. BARNUM, Pat Williams turned a dream into the Orlando Magic more than 25 years ago.

"I had been working in conjunction with Jimmy Hewitt on this idea of trying to bring a basketball team to Orlando," said Williams. "He had put everything in place with ownership, an arena, the backing of the city. He called one night, late April 1986, and I remember taking the phone call in my kitchen. Jimmy, in his unmistakable southern drawl, said, 'Bubba, we've gone about as far as we can go down here. If you come down here and spearhead it we'll go forward...If you don't, we'll pull the plug'."

Williams could feel the urgency. He knew it was decision time.

"We (Philadelphia 76ers) were getting ready for the lottery in which we had a pick and we were getting ready for the playoffs. We ended up winning the lottery and had a good playoff run which made things more confusing.

FIRST COACH. On June 1, 1988, Matt Guokas, the former head coach of the Philadelphia 76ers, was named the first head coach of the Orlando Magic.

"But I knew deep within that the adventure and risk involved in trying to start up a team was really something that I had to pursue. There was a restlessness in my spirit. I needed a new adventure."

Williams took the leap of faith and resigned his position as General Manager of the Philadelphia 76ers.

More than 25 magical years later, Williams has certainly lived an incredible adventure.

25 MAGICAL MOMENTS

DECEMBER 22, 1988

ORLANDO IS AWARDED AN NBA FRANCHISE:

Pat Williams and Jimmy Hewitt begin the process of bringing an NBA team to Orlando in 1986. On April 22, 1987, the NBA Board of Governors grants an expansion franchise to Orlando, and on December 22, 1988, the Magic sell their 10,000th season ticket, thus fulfilling their commitment to the NBA.

OCTOBER 13, 1989 AND NOVEMBER 6, 1989

ORLANDO'S FIRST WINS IN FRANCHISE HISTORY:

On October 13, 1989, professional basketball makes its debut in Orlando with a preseason game against the defending NBA World Champion Detroit Pistons. The Magic shock Detroit, 118-109, sending a sellout crowd into a frenzy. On November 6, 1989, Orlando notches its first regular season win, defeating the New York Knicks, 118-110. Reggie Theus leads the Magic with 24 points.

THE LAST ORIGINAL MAGIC PLAYER. On June 27, 1989, the Magic made Nick Anderson the team's first-ever college draft selection. Anderson, who played at the University of Illinois, was the 11th pick in the first round of the 1989 Draft. Anderson was the last original Magic player on the team roster and is the team's all-time leader in games played, points scored and steals. Nick Anderson with NBA Commissioner David Stern at the NBA Draft (left).

DECEMBER 30, 1990

SKILES DISHES IT OUT:

Magic guard Scott Skiles dishes out 30 assists, breaking the NBA record for most assists in a single game, as Orlando routs Denver, 155-116. The Magic set franchise records for points scored in a game (155), and in a half (83), records that still stand today.

SEPTEMBER 19, 1991

DEVOS FAMILY:

The DeVos family purchases the Orlando Magic. As stewards of the franchise, family head Rich DeVos stated after purchasing the team that the DeVos family is simply the team's current caretaker, making it clear that the real owners of the NBA franchise would continue to be the Central Florida community and the loyal Magic fans. Since the DeVos family purchased the Magic in 1991-92, Orlando has posted the fourth-best record in the Eastern Conference. Also, since 1992-93, the Magic have finished with a .500 or better record in 16 of the last 21 seasons, tied for first in the Eastern Conference and fifth-best in the NBA. Orlando has also reached the playoffs 14 times in the last 20 seasons (since 1993-94), also sixth-best in the NBA.

HISTORY

KISS FOR LUCK. The Magic win the 2004 NBA Draft Lottery at the proceedings in Secaucus, N.J. Pat Williams, Orlando's senior vice president and lucky charm, wins the lottery for the third time in franchise history.

1992, 1993, 2004

LOTTERY LUCK:

Pat Williams has been a tremendous good luck charm for the Orlando Magic when it comes to the NBA Draft Lottery. In 1992, the Magic secured the first overall pick, winning the right to select Shaquille O'Neal. In 1993, Orlando became the first team to win back-to-back lotteries, causing the NBA to change the lottery rules. The Magic went on to select Chris Webber with the #1 pick, then trade him to Golden State for the draft rights to Anfernee "Penny" Hardaway (#3 pick) and three future first round draft choices. Then in 2004, Orlando won the lottery for a third time and selected Dwight Howard first overall.

APRIL 23, 1993

IN THE NICK OF TIME:

Nick Anderson, who was battling an injury and did not start, fought through the pain and poured in a career-high 50 points, as Orlando won at New Jersey, 119-116. Anderson was 17-of-25 from the floor, including 4-of-7 from three-point range, and a perfect 12-of-12 from the free throw line, playing an inspired 33 minutes off the bench. During the same game, Shaquille O'Neal left those watching in awe, throwing down a two-hand jam and sending the entire backboard crashing down on top of several players in the process.

MAY 5, 1995

BOSTON GARDEN OFFICIALLY CLOSED:

The Magic defeat the Boston Celtics, 95-92, in Game #4 of the First Round of the 1995 NBA Playoffs and win the series, 3-1. It was Orlando's first-ever playoff series win, and it also turned out to be the final game at the fabled Boston Garden, which was being torn down at season's end.

MAY 7, 1995

ANDERSON STEALS THE BALL:

Trailing late in the fourth quarter of Game #1 of the 1995 Eastern Conference Semifinals, Nick Anderson steals the ball from Michael Jordan. Penny Hardaway picks up the loose ball, leads a two-on-one fast break and dishes off to a streaking Horace Grant, who slams home the game-winner with 6.2 seconds left. The Magic go on to win the series in six games, and hoist Grant, a former Bull, on the team's shoulders after their series-clinching victory in Chicago.

HERE COME THE MAGIC. The Orlando Magic were officially welcomed with a downtown parade on Nov. 3, 1989. Following the parade, team members were introduced. Orlando hosted the New Jersey Nets on Nov. 4, 1989, for the team's first-ever regular season game. Pat Williams and Matt Guokas lead the parade, while Williams introduces the Magic.

JUNE 4, 1995

MAGIC ADVANCE TO THE 1995 NBA FINALS:

The Magic win Game #7 of the 1995 Eastern Conference Finals over the Indiana Pacers, 105-81, and advance to the NBA Finals to face the Houston Rockets. Shaquille O'Neal leads the way for Orlando with 25 points and 11 rebounds. Orlando becomes the second-fastest team to advance to the NBA Finals in league history.

APRIL 18, 1996

3-D FROM DOWNTOWN:

PENNY FOR YOUR THOUGHTS:

Trailing 2-0 to Miami in the First Round of the 1997 NBA Playoffs, the Heat declared the series over and the scene shifts to Orlando for Game #3. Anfernee Hardaway scores 42 points in Game #3 (then a Magic playoff record), and comes back the next game with 41 points to force a deciding Game #5 back in Miami. Hardaway's combined 83 points during the two-game span still ranks as one of the best playoff performances in Magic history.

FEBRUARY 22, 1998

WELCOME BACK, SHAQ:

Nick Anderson scores 30 points and hits a game-winning 3-pointer with 7.1 seconds left to lift Orlando over Shaquille O'Neal and the Los Angeles Lakers, 96-94, in front of a national television audience. It was Shaq's first game appearance in Orlando since signing with the Lakers in July of 1996.

WE ARE FAMILY. *The DeVos family purchased the Orlando Magic in September of 1991. At that time, family head Rich DeVos made it clear that the real owners of the NBA franchise would continue to be the Central Florida community and the loyal Magic fans. RICH AND HELEN DEVOS COMMUNITY ENRICHMENT AWARD

Magic owners Rich and Helen DeVos established this program to honor an Orlando Magic player who dedicates his efforts beyond the basketball court to enhance the lives of others. In selecting the player each year, the anonymous committee looks at several criteria including the three "A's": Action, Attitude and Atmosphere. Specifically, that means the player's actions off the court are honorable in nature, the player displays a respectable attitude toward those he comes in contact with, and the player shies away from situations that may be negatively perceived and provides a positive environment for others through his actions. Rich and Helen donate $50,000 to the charity of the honored player's choice.

In 2013, Orlando Magic captain Jameer Nelson was honored with the Community Enrichment award for his continued efforts off the court.

On October 27, 1988, STUFF literally burst onto the scene when a large egg was discovered in front of the old Amway Arena. No one is sure where it came from or how it arrived in Orlando. Witnesses, however, reported a giant explosion followed by a shower of deflated basketballs, Orlando Magic bumper stickers, and puffs of green smoke. The oversized green dragon that emerged from the commotion had no idea of the impact he would soon have on "The City Beautiful."

Now in his 24th season, STUFF is one of the most recognizable mascots in professional sports. STUFF prides himself as the Orlando Magic's number one fan, and he relishes his role as the team "funny guy." Whether seen rolling down the stairs, performing a comedic dance routine with the Magic Dancers, shooting his patented backwards half-court shot, or perhaps throwing a cake in the face of an unsuspecting fan from another team, STUFF seldom seems to slow down his pace. Although unpredictable at times, his comedic timing and impromptu style is guaranteed to bring a smile to the faces of fans both young and old.

Our lovable dragon STUFF can be found at every home Magic game and nearly every Magic-related activity. If you are lucky, you may even see the wild wackiness of his alter ego, Air STUFF. This air-headed, inflatable version of STUFF can often be seen spinning on his head or doing a dance routine with his sidekick, Air STUFF, Jr. Speaking of which, STUFF has his own partners in crime, Mini STUFF and Micro STUFF, who can sometimes be seen aiding him in his mischief and practical jokes. If ever this entire entourage is seen together, you better look out, because trouble is brewing for sure.

For more information on "Orlando's Mascot" or to book him for an event, check out www.stuffthemagicmascot.com or follow him on Twitter (@STUFF_Mascot). If you are interested in having STUFF add some "magic" to your next event or birthday party, contact his booking manager, Jeanine Thomas, at 407-916-2675 or email at stuff@orlandomagic.com.

PAT WILLIAMS
Senior Vice President

Basketball Hall-of-Famer Pat Williams has more than 50 years of professional sports experience to his credit. The 73-year-old protégé of the late Bill Veeck is probably most known for his promotional and marketing wizardry. That same type of creativity and ingenuity has turned a Central Florida pro sports dream into the reality of Orlando Magic basketball, reaching into the homes of NBA fans throughout the country.

Williams was promoted to his current post from the general manager position in April of 1996. As the senior vice president, Williams serves in strategic planning activities relating to RDV Sports, named for Rich DeVos and the parent company of the Magic. He also spearheads research of future RDV Sports properties. Additionally, he serves as the promotional leader and strategic marketer for memberships at the $50 million state-of-the-art RDV Sportsplex. He is involved in training and mentoring of RDV Sports employees, while making public appearances on behalf of RDV Sports and the Orlando Magic.

In 2012, the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame honored Williams with the John W. Bunn Lifetime Achievement Award. Williams is also considered one of the country's top motivational and inspirational public speakers. His wife, Ruth, teaches time management seminars for the FranklinCovey Company.

Prior to joining the Central Florida pro basketball effort in June of 1986, Williams spent 12 seasons as general manager of the Philadelphia 76ers. During that time, he took a Sixers team that posted a 34-48 record in 1974-75 to a World Championship in 1983. Through several personnel moves during that time, Williams played a major factor in bringing the NBA title to Philadelphia.

Williams joined the Sixers in 1968 as the club's business manager. The next season, at the tender age of 29 he became the general manager of the Chicago Bulls, and remained in that post until 1973. While in Chicago, he raised average game attendance figures at Chicago Stadium from 3,700 to more than 10,000 per game.

In 1973, he left the Bulls organization to become general manager of the Atlanta Hawks, where he served one season before returning to take over the reins in Philadelphia.

Though Williams has spent well over four decades in the NBA, his first love is baseball, the sport that earned him a scholarship to Wake Forest University. While at Wake Forest, Williams earned a bachelor's degree in physical education. He was a three-year letterman as a catcher on the Demon Deacons baseball team and is a member of the Wake Forest Sports Hall of Fame. He later went on to earn a master's of science degree in physical education from Indiana University in 1964.

Williams' baseball career began when he signed with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1962 and spent two seasons catching for the Miami Marlins, a Class A club in the Florida State League. He quickly moved from the playing field to the front office, when he was appointed business manager of Miami in 1964. He took the general manager job with the Spartanburg (S.C.) Phillies in 1965 and was later elevated to the position of president of the organization in 1967.

In 1967, he was chosen the Minor League Executive of the Year by The Sporting News. Williams remains active in baseball as a catcher in Dream Week games in Florida during the winter. He was also the president of Orlando's Double-A Southern League team from 1990-1993. Pat's son, Bobby, is a professional scout for the Los Angeles Angels of Anaheim.

Pat was born in Philadelphia on May 3, 1940, and was raised in nearby Wilmington, Del., where he attended Tower Hill School. He was voted into the Delaware Sports Hall of Fame in 2001.

Pat and Ruth are the parents of 19 children, 14 of whom are adopted from four foreign countries. The Williams family roster reads as follows: Stephanie (41), Jim (39), Bobby (36), David (36), Peter (35), Brian (34), Karyn (34), Thomas (33), Stephen (33), Sarah (33), Daniella (32), Andrea (32), Richie (32), Sammy (31), Caroline (30), Michael (29), Gabriella (29), Katarina (28) and Alan (27). Four of the children are from Korea, four from the Philippines, two from Romania, and four from Brazil. Pat and Ruth also have 14 grandchildren: Laila, Brianna, Ava, Austin, Audri, Max, Anthony, Nola-Blair, Zachary, Olivia, twins Jack and Teddy, and twins Deacon and Benjamin.

Williams was diagnosed in February of 2011 with Multiple Myeloma. After several rounds of chemotherapy and a bone marrow transplant, the cancer is now in remission. Williams has accepted positions on several boards for different cancer groups throughout the country, including an appointment on the Board of Directors for the Multiple Myeloma Research Foundation.

Pat has written more than 80 books, including his version of the birth of the Orlando Magic, entitled Making Magic. His two most recent books are The Difference You Can Make and Coach Wooden's Greatest Secret. An avid runner, Williams completed the Boston Marathon 13 times in the last 15 years. Along with handling television play-by-play duties, Steele will be involved in ancillary television and radio programming.

Turner made his Magic broadcasting debut in April of 1996 as radio color analyst on the Magic Radio Network and spent nine full seasons in that role from 1996-2005.

During the spring of 2005, Turner was named leadership development coordinator at Lake Highland Preparatory School in Orlando. In addition, he served as the school's head varsity basketball coach for eight seasons (2005-13), compiling a record of 151-72 (.677). Turner led the program to a district title in 2010-11 and a runner-up finish for the Class 4A state crown in 2011-12, before guiding the Highlanders to the Florida Class 4A State Championship in 2012-13.

Originally selected in the first round (17th overall) by New Jersey in the 1984 NBA Draft, Turner appeared in 612 NBA regular season games during his career with New Jersey and Orlando, averaging 6.0 ppg. and 3.3 rpg. After spending three seasons with the Nets and two years in the Italian Basketball League (1987-89), Turner became a member of Orlando's inaugural squad in 1989. In 411 games (176 starts) with the Magic, he averaged 6.5 ppg. and 3.6 rpg., and helped them reach the 1995 NBA Finals. Turner, who retired in March of 1996, still ranks among Orlando's all-time leaders in games played (tied for eighth).

A graduate of Vanderbilt, Turner was an All-SEC First Team selection as a senior (1984) and a two-time All-SEC Academic selection (1983-84). He was a member of the 1984 Olympic Gold Medal basketball team.

Adubato has followed the career path of lifetime coaches and friends Hubie Brown, Mike Fratello, and Dick Vitale by taking up broadcasting after a career in coaching.

Most recently, Adubato was head coach of the WNBA's Washington Mystics for two-plus seasons, leading the club into the WNBA Playoffs in 2006. He served as head coach of the New York Liberty for five seasons, guiding them to a 100-79 record (.559), three straight playoff berths and three Eastern Conference Championships in 1999, 2000, and 2002. Adubato was also head coach for the Eastern Conference All-Stars in the 2000, 2001, and 2003 WNBA All-Star Games.

Prior to coaching in the WNBA, Adubato spent 19 years in the NBA, including three seasons with the Magic (assistant coach from 1994-97, head coach 1996-97). Adubato won 65 percent of his games as head coach and led the Magic to the playoffs, nearly upsetting Pat Riley's Miami Heat with the help of spectacular play from Penny Hardaway. He served as head coach for the Detroit Pistons (1979-80), Dallas Mavericks (1989-90 to 1992-93) and Orlando, leading his teams to the NBA Playoffs twice. He also served as an assistant coach for New York, Detroit, Dallas, Cleveland and Orlando. Adubato is also the only head coach in history to lead teams to the playoffs in both the NBA and the WNBA.

Adubato spent 18 years as a high school and college coach in New Jersey, compiling an overall record if 290-85 (.773). Ironically, one high school player he coached at Our Lady of the Valley High School (Orange, N.J.) in 1964 and 1965 was former Magic Head Coach Brian Hill.

Born in Irvington, N.J., Adubato earned undergraduate and graduate degrees, as well as doctoral credits, in administration from William Paterson University, where he captained both the basketball and baseball teams. Adubato was recently inducted into the William Patterson Hall of Fame for both sports. He married the former Carol Begerow in 1989. Adubato has one daughter, Beth, and two sons, Scott and Adam. Scott has coached in the NBA, WNBA and NCAA, and was drafted by Sacramento in 1987. Adam will graduate from Florida State University in December with degrees in business management and sport management. Beth obtained her doctorate from Rutgers University in criminal justice, and is currently a professor at New York Institute of Technology. He also has two grandchildren, Beth's daughter, Allegra and Scott's son, Sean.

AMWAY CENTER: ENTER LEGEND

FROM A VISION TO BLUEPRINTS TO REALITY

The Orlando Magic served as the developer of the downtown Amway Center, which competes to host major national events, concerts and family shows. The facility is owned and operated by the City of Orlando on behalf of the Central Florida community.

The Amway Center opened in 2010 and was designed to reflect the character of the community, meet the goals of the users and build on the legacy of sports and entertainment in Orlando.

The building's exterior features a modern blend of glass and metal materials, along with ever-changing graphics via a monumental wall along one façade. A 180-foot tall tower and spire serves as a beacon amid the downtown skyline.

2013 CUSTOMER SERVICE AWARD

The Amway Center was honored on June 6, 2013 with the Customer Experience Award during TheStadiumBusiness Awards presentation held in association with TheStadiumBusiness Summit in Manchester, England.

TheStadiumBusiness Summit is the largest dedicated meeting in the world of the owners, operators and developers of the world's leading stadiums, arenas and major sports venues. Previous recipients have included City Square/Etihad Stadium, Manchester City FC, Manchester, England (2012), The Family Area – Cardiff City FC, Cardiff, Wales (2011) and The O2 Arena, London, England (2010).

With the opening of the Amway Center in 2010, the Orlando Magic spearheaded a specialized customer service training program in conjunction with the Disney Institute for all Amway Center employees. Annually the initiative provides training to more than 2,000 employees.

The criteria for a Customer Experience Award nomination requires that the stadium, arena or major sports venue consistently deliver outstanding levels of service at every stage of the customer journey.

2012 FACILITY OF THE YEAR

At a sports industry annual awards ceremony on May 23, 2012, the Amway Center was named "Facility of the Year."

The announcement was made by Street & Smith's SportsBusiness Journal and SportsBusiness Daily at the prestigious Sports Business Awards in New York City, which annually recognizes excellence and outstanding achievement in the business of sports.

Amway Center served as host for the 2012 NBA All-Star Weekend in Orlando, culminating with the 61st NBA All-Star Game on Sunday, February 26. In a thrilling contest, the West defeated the East, 152-149. More than $95 million in economic impact in Orange County, Florida was generated from NBA All-Star Weekend, according to a study conducted by Strategic Marketing Services and SportsEconomics, LLC. In addition, the NBA All-Star Game at the Amway Center provided unprecedented exposure, as the contest was broadcast in 215 countries and territories in 47 different languages.

AMENITIES FOR ALL LEVELS OF TICKET BUYERS

The 875,000 square foot, Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) Gold certified building features a sustainable, environmentally-friendly design, unmatched technology, featuring 1,100 digital monitors, the tallest high-definition videoboard in an NBA venue and multiple premium amenities available to all patrons in the building.

Every level of ticket buyer has access to a number of premium amenities.

"It's a great day for Central Florida. History will look back on this day in the same light as the day that Walt Disney announced he was building his theme park in Orlando," Magic CEO Alex Martins said the night of the approval, July 26, 2007, adding: "I would like to thank Mayor Rich Crotty and Mayor Buddy Dyer, as well as both the County and City Commissions for their vision and leadership. I would also like to thank the Walt Disney World Company, Universal Orlando, SeaWorld, the Central Florida Hotel and Lodging Association, the Orlando/Orange County Convention and Visitors Bureau, as well as the entire Orlando tourism and business community for their active participation in ensuring this positive outcome for new downtown sports and entertainment facilities for the people who call Central Florida home."

The Magic were major financial participants in the public-private partnership - contributing $50 million toward construction of the Amway Center, $10 million toward the arts center, and $25 million toward construction of five community recreation centers. The Magic's other contributions toward operations, fundraising and financing push the team's total participation in the downtown venue projects to more than $150 million.

In a historic move, the Magic agreed that Amway Center would be designed and constructed to meet the certification criteria for an environmentally "green" building development standard.

"We want this facility to not only serve our community but to reflect our community's values," Martins said.

Populous, formerly HOK Sport, was selected as designer of the Amway Center. Hunt Construction group was selected as the construction manager. The official groundbreaking celebration was held July 25, 2008. The events center was named the Amway Center on August 5, 2008 and the building opened to the public for the first time on October 1, 2010.

Inside the arena, patrons will find modern amenities in a comfortable setting – ideal for hosting family events as well as basketball games. Concourses are spacious, offering unique concessions and activities for kids and adults alike. The Budweiser Baseline Bar on the main Terrace concourse overlooks the event floor, and children will enjoy spending time in the kid-oriented STUFF's Magic Castle and retail opportunities on the upper Promenade concourse.

"From the inside out, beginning to end we were committed to developing a world class venue that would bring a myriad of events that would appeal to the diverse taste of Central Florida residents," said Mayor Buddy Dyer. "Whether it's a child experiencing his or her first basketball game or two friends singing along at a concert, these are the shared experiences and memories that will be created at the Amway Center."

With 875,000 square feet of space, the Amway Center offers plenty of room to incorporate the modern day amenities found in most professional arenas of today, and seating is expandable to more than 20,000 seats to accommodate major national events.

The $380 million facility features eight levels, five public concourses, 37 restrooms, 55 concession points of sale, 60 suites, 68 loge boxes and 1,400 club seats. The Amway Center features up to 17 hospitality spaces for rental on a per event basis.

UNIQUELY ORLANDO

"We took a hard and long look at the essence of Orlando before coming up with a design that we believe reflects the best and most distinctive aspects of this community," said AIA, Populous Sport Senior Designer Brad Clark. "And just as importantly, the building will set a new standard in sustainable design as one of the greenest professional sports facilities in the country."

To celebrate Central Florida's moderate climate, the building is filled with a variety of indoor-outdoor spaces. Once guests enter the voluminous, 80-foot-tall Disney Atrium main lobby, they are able to return to the outdoors via a spacious bar area overlooking Church Street.

The arena was designed to respond to its distinct urban setting while revealing the activities occurring within. Bounded by Church Street, Hughey Avenue, South Street and Division Avenue, the arena's primary entrance faces north to Church Street, creating a natural extension of the nearby downtown entertainment core. The Church Street entry features a large public entry plaza connecting the arena's spacious entry lobby.

"In designing the community's new center we feel we created the framework for a facility that will be the catalyst for economic revitalization in downtown's west side, while establishing a flexible design that will serve as a great home and attract the nation's premier events," added the Magic's Martins. "The building has a design unique to Orlando, while providing a framework for environmental sustainability."

JOBS IN A TOUGH ECONOMY

The massive construction project served as a boon to the local construction business in a time when jobs were scarce because of the sharp downturn of the nation's economy.

The Magic and City of Orlando worked closely with local minority and women-owned businesses — some of which were based out of the nearby Parramore community — awarding them with more than 30 percent of the contracts totaling $90-plus million, exceeding the 24 percent benchmark established by the City of Orlando.

Of the 170-plus minority and women-owned firms which worked to construct the facility, 61 were African-American-owned firms, 52 women-owned firms, 37 Hispanic-owned firms, 22 Asian-American-owned firms and two Native-American-owned firms.

ENVIRONMENTALLY-FRIENDLY

Sustainable design and construction specifics focused on the opportunities to create an environmentally-friendly building in various categories. Among them: providing water efficiency; optimizing energy and atmosphere protection; conserving materials and resources; monitoring indoor environmental quality and health; selecting environmentally preferred operations and maintenance.

These elements combine to create one of the most environmentally-friendly, high-performing professional arenas in the country and the first NBA arena which was originally designed and constructed to be Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) Gold certified.

MOST TECHNOLOGICALLY-ADVANCED BUILDING IN NORTH AMERICA

Harris Corporation is the official technology partner of Amway Center. The arena has more than 1,100 screens of high-definition content via Internet Protocol Television and a state-of-the-art digital signage network which maximizes fan engagement and interaction, distributes an unprecedented amount of patron information, as well as providing unlimited opportunities for advertisers and sponsors.

The Daktronics center-hung scoreboard alone includes four primary high definition LED video displays with 840 lines of resolution, eight auxiliary video/scoring/statistics displays and two LED ring displays. The venue is the first in the world to utilize high resolution 6 mm surface mount LED pixel technology on all of the center-hung digital displays. More than 9 million individual LEDs are used in the 18 displays incorporated into the center-hung scoreboard. Overall dimensions of the center-hung scoreboard are 42 feet by 41 feet by 41 feet (HxWxD), making it the tallest and most capable of any in NBA venues. Complementing the primary scoreboard are two LED ribbon boards mounted on the interior fascia of the seating decks.

The bigger size, flexibility and advanced technology allows Orlando to attract bigger concerts, major political conventions and compete for more major sporting events such as conference and NCAA tournaments.

``We've designed a facility that has so many built-in amenities for every level of ticket-buyer," Martins said. ``So many of these buildings in the past have been designed where a lot of the amenities have focused only on the premium ticket-buyer, the courtside seat holder or the club seat holder. But here with the new Amway Center, we have bars, restaurants and clubs on every level for every ticket-buyer; and that's for Magic games and every event. So it really is a building that has a high level of amenity for everybody."

"Over the past three years, we have focused on revitalizing the Parramore neighborhood and have experienced a resurgence in our downtown," said Orlando Mayor Buddy Dyer as the design for the building was unveiled on December 11, 2007. "Today marks another important day in our efforts, as the facility takes shape with the design unveiling of this new landmark…a landmark that will be a gathering place for all of Orlando and Central Florida."

AMWAY CENTER DESIGN PRINCIPLES

Amway Center was designed to reflect the character of the community, meet the goals of the users and build on the legacy of sports and entertainment in Orlando. The building's exterior features a modern blend of glass and metal materials, along with ever-changing graphics via a monumental wall along one façade. A 180-foot tall tower serves as a beacon amid the downtown skyline.

Civic Building:	Created a community gathering place for Orlando and Central Florida, with a clear front door.
Context:	Designed each façade with respect to its distinct environment; responded to the neighborhoods immediately adjacent to the specific façade.
Sustainable:	Implemented design strategies to create one of the country's most environmentally friendly arenas.
Indoor-Outdoor:	Celebrated Central Florida climate by allowing movement indoors and out.
Front porch:	Created an entry design element that relates the design to local architecture.
Landscape:	Integrated a variety of native landscape forms of various scale and type.
Pattern and Texture:	Used a variety of design elements in both horizontal and vertical surfaces.
Alive:	Brought the building to life with color, graphics and signage.
Public Art:	Identified key locations for public art to further define the building's personality coordinated by Sports & The Arts.
